Abstract:	The North Congregational Church (Haverhill, Mass.) records document the activities, memberships, financial transactions, pastoral activities, and social activities of the church in the 19 th and 20 th centuries.

Organizational History

By 1859 the Centre Congregational Church in Haverhill, Massachusetts, had grown significantly and it was decided that a portion of the parish would leave to form a new church in the north of Haverhill. In 1859, 100 former members of the Centre Church formed the North Congregational Church. In 1891 some members of both the North and Centre Congregational Churches joined together to form the Union Congregational Church. The Union Congregational Church dissolved in 1932.

The first building of the North Congregational Church was completed in 1860. In the early twentieth-century, the building was renovated with Tiffany and La Farge memorial windows. In 1929, the North Parish Community Church was formed after the dissolution of the Rockingham Congregational Church in Plaistow, New Hampshire. In 1940, the Centre Congregational Church and North Congregational Church merged to form the First Congregational Church in Haverhill which occupied the North Church building. In 1963, the North Parish Community Church merged into the First Congregational Church; at the same time the First Congregational Church joined the United Church of Christ. In 2010 the 1860 church building was sold and the First Congregational Church was formally dissolved.

Scope and Content Note

The North Congregational Church (Haverhill, Mass.) records document the activities, memberships, financial transactions, pastoral activities, and social activities of the church in the 19th and 20th centuries. The collection has been arranged into six series. Series one contains general administrative records, such as reports, a record book, printed copies of the Covenant, manual, directories, and lists of members. Series two contains annual reports, appeals to the congregants, treasurer's reports, statistics, a pew plan, and other financial records of the church. Series three contains pastors' papers, weekly calendars, membership information such as letters of dismissal and admissions, and programs. Series four consists of records relating to the Sunday School, including record books, programs, and attendance certificates. Series five contains records of the societies or clubs that were part of the church. Series six contains a diagram of the organ console, a guest book, and an application to the Massachusetts Historical Commission to get the church placed on the National Register of Historic Places.
